Welcome to Datacloud Europe 2016

A warm welcome to Monaco for this year's Datacloud Europe congress - the third in this exceptional Mediterranean location!

The 2016 event promises to sustain its mission as the premier networking brand for the leadership of data centre, cloud and IT infrastructure professionals. It is the place to be and do deals with companies across the sector.

As markets continue to evolve across Europe, an interesting time lies ahead with economic regeneration, the emergence of new sub-markets and deployment of edge data centres, all driven by enterprise demand.

In looking forward, the European markets continue to demonstrate growth and consolidation, but this brings with it the prospect of greater regulation. It is important therefore for the industry to demand a much stronger voice at regional level. We hope that Datacloud provides a great opportunity to begin this process.

In the meantime, please enjoy the event, connect with old and new colleagues and find ROI!

Home of the Hybrid Cloud

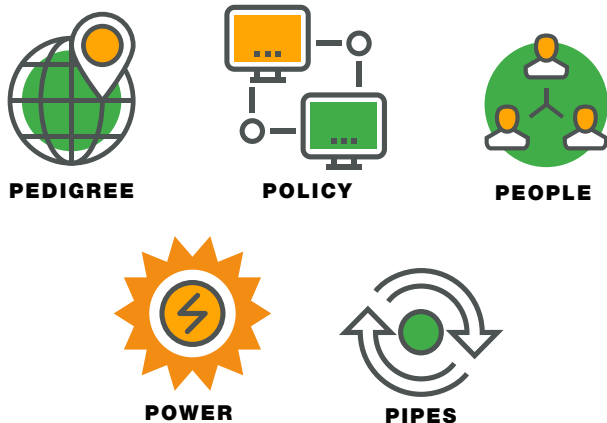

Host in Ireland is an industry-led initiative specifically designed to increase awareness of Ireland's benefits as an optimum location to host digital assets. While hyperscale and web scale developments driven by Apple, Google, Facebook, Microsoft and Amazon in Ireland continue to make global headlines, the growth of managed services, wholesale, retail and colocation facilities has been equally as impressive, and Ireland is now seen as the "Home of the Hybrid Cloud."

With the support of a growing team of partners, Host in Ireland has harnessed the "power of the collective," fostering an environment of co-opetition where competing global companies and organizations from the U.S., the U.K., France and Ireland come together to achieve common goals through cooperation and collaboration.

Entering its third year, Host in Ireland members have grown from wholesale and retail data centre providers, and hosting and managed services companies, to include off-island dark fibre and OEM equipment providers, and professional services.
